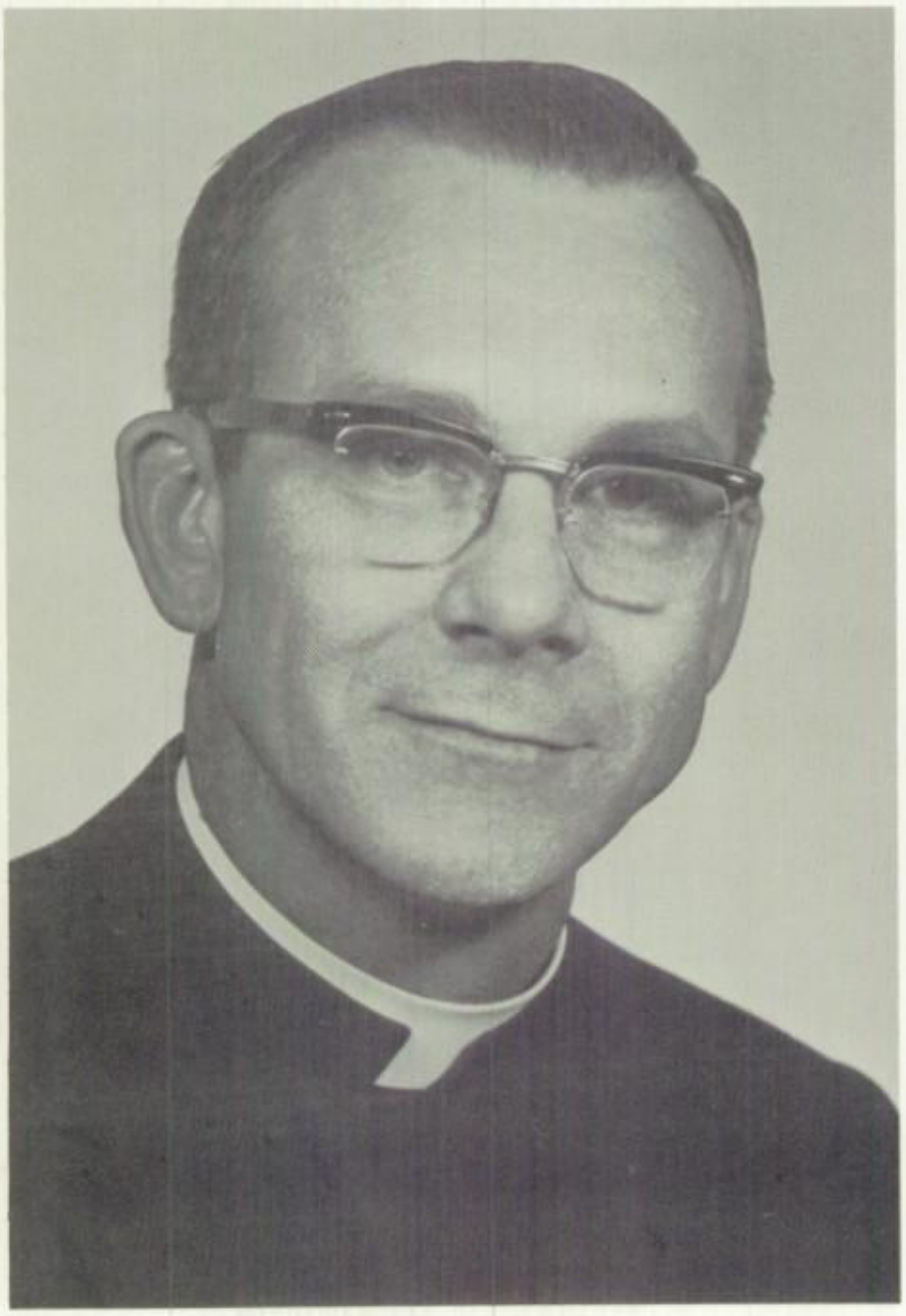
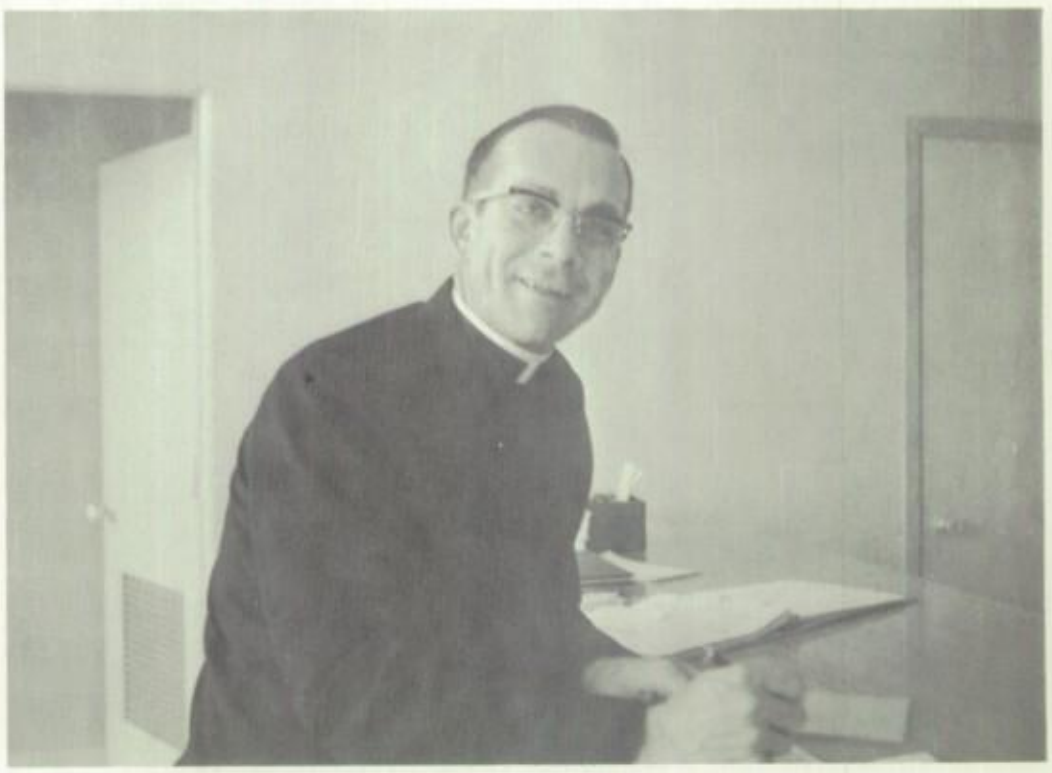
Dedication

We, the Class of 1964, dedicate this yearbook to Father Mueller . . .



who has won the deep admiration, love, and friendship of the students. Father has not only shown us how to be good children in the eyes of God but has also taught us the true meaning of respect for our elders and for each other. Because he has dedicated his life to guiding us on the right path toward adulthood we dedicate this Calvertana to Father Mueller.

REV. PAUL MUELLER



Father always manages to find time for a "yee" break with the students.

Pope Paul Blesses His Flock

POPE PAUL VI

After mourning the death of Pope John XXIII, the Church rejoiced over the election of Pope Paul VI. Pope Paul is following in the footsteps of his predecessor as he continues the work of the Ecumenical Council.

Ursulines Celebrate Their One

St. Angela Merici was the foundress of the Order of St. Ursula, the first teaching order of women to be established in the church. St. Angela was born in 1470 at Desenzano in Italy. About 1533 she began to train a select few of her companions in a kind of informal novitiate and two years later these twenty-eight young women consecrated themselves to God. Under the protection of St. Ursula, the Order flourished. Angela died in January of 1540, and in 1544 Pope Paul III issued a paper confirming the Order of St. Ursula.

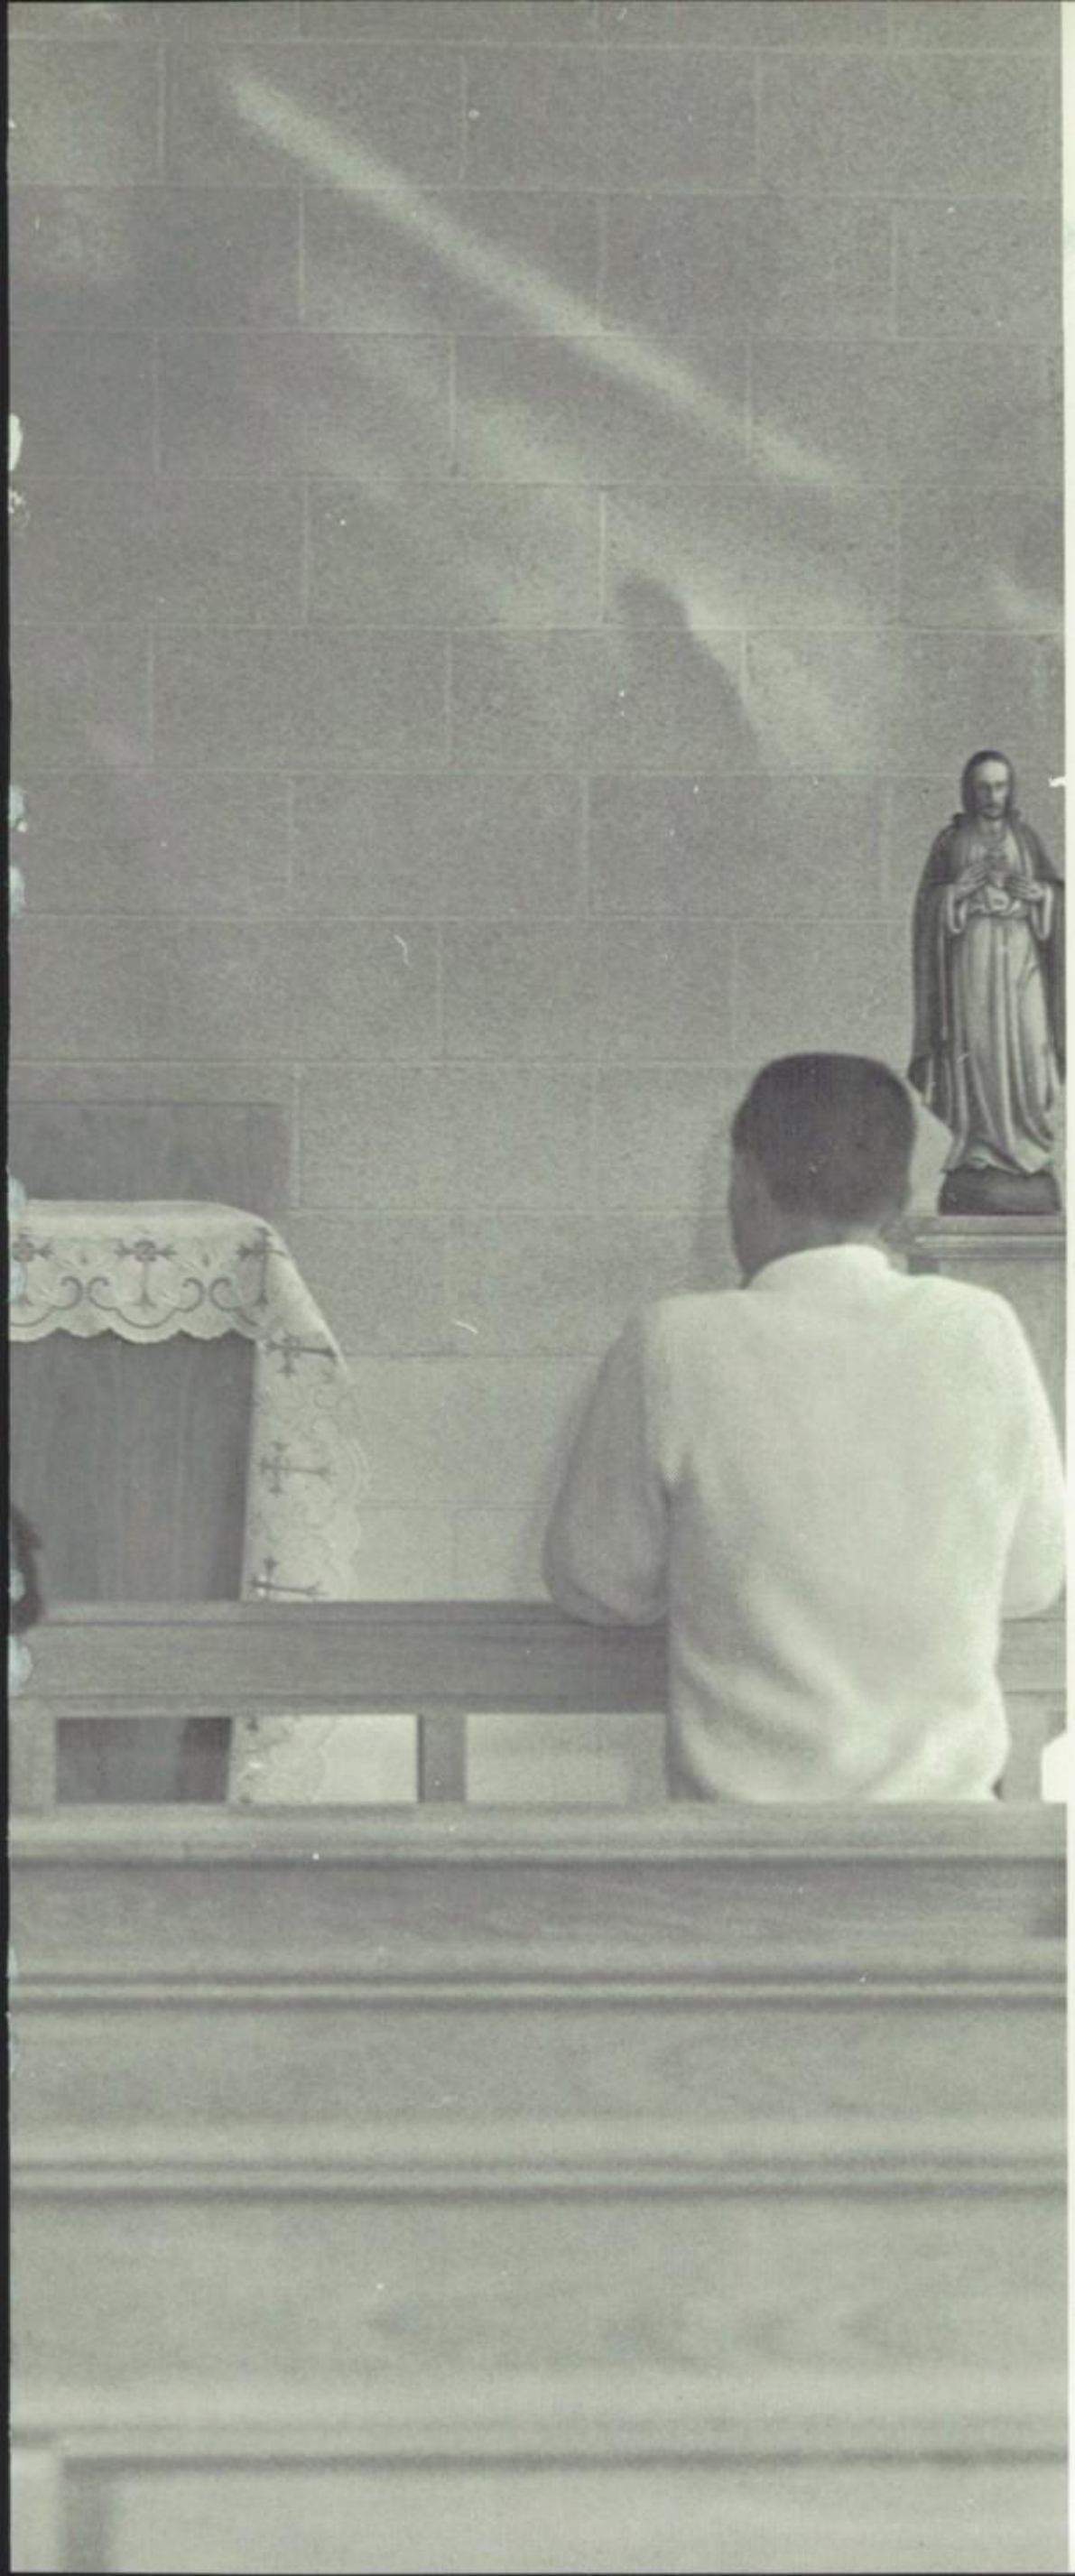
The sisters of our own Ursuline Convent have lived at the same site on Jefferson Street since 1863, when five nuns arrived from Cleveland. Within one year they had opened St. Joseph and St. Mary's grade schools and their own academy for high school girls. In the early 1920's, Bishop Samuel A. Stritch of Toledo cited the need for a Catholic education for high school boys and asked the sisters to undertake the task of providing for it. At his request the academy was turned into a co-ed high school and named Calvert. In 1963 we joined with the Ursulines in celebrating their hundreth anniversary.

We, the senior 'class of 1964, wish to thank these sisters who have influenced us greatly. It is our desire that they receive every blessing God may ever grant. We will always remember them.

Hundredth Anniversary in Tiffin

Calvert aims to carry out the example set by St. Angela Merici when she established the teaching order of St. Ursula. Striving to educate the whole man, this school presents to the students a well-balanced Christian education which will aid him to be successful in this life and which provides him with the tools necessary for attaining the goal of heaven in the next life.

Christian education encompasses the whole man, physically, spiritually, morally, and mentally. Students develop physically through the physical education and sports programs presented by Calvert. Academically they are provided a program which offers them an opportunity to develop their mental abilities. Spiritually and morally they are trained through the religion classes, weekly Mass, and through the fine example set by the teachers at Calvert. The annual retreat also offers the students a chance to come into closer union with Christ. By the time graduation has arrived the Calvert student has been educated as a whole, well-rounded Catholic young man or young woman.



SENIORS

Calvert realizes the importance of religious training in educating the whole man and insures this training by including religion classes in the curriculum, by giving the opportunity for weekly attendance at Mass, and by providing the students with a beautiful chapel where they can go to talk to God. Since this will be the last formal religious training many of the students will get, the religion classes explain the basic facts concerning the religious, married, and single states of life. Mass on Fridays enables the students to come into close contact with God and to ask Him for His aid. And finally, it has been made possible for the first time in many years to have Christ with us all the time by means of the new chapel. Thus, all ways lead to one goal--bringing us to know, love, and serve God.

JUNIORS

In their junior year most students begin to look to the future and to prepare for the following years. They receive moral guidance and knowledge of their faith in religion classes, and new and interesting insights into science through chemistry. Their English research essay gives them an idea of what is expected of them in higher education. The junior year is not completely filled with work, however. It has its share of fun, from making tallies for football games in the fall to decorating for the annual prom in the spring.

SOPHOMORES

Because emphasis is placed upon the formation of the whole man, physically, mentally, and spiritually, a Christian education assures students of developing their characters to the best of their abilities. Thus at Calvert self-improvement is stressed in every way. To assure their mental growth, Calvert students are taught to make good use of their study time both in and out of school. During their sophomore year, they continue to develop study habits which influence their scholastic achievements. As the sophomore year draws to a close, these boys and girls are one step higher on the ladder of Christian living.

FRESHMEN

Having passed the elementary level, freshmen arrive at the next phase of education, high school. In the first year of high school, freshmen learn more fully the meaning of life and the importance of striving earnestly to achieve their new goals. They are given the guidance which will enable them to understand their individual abilities and interests, and to develop them as well as possible. They are taught the necessity of applying their talents in order to be successful in this world and in the next. Tomorrow is in their hands and they are preparing for the day when the future will be theirs.

ACTIVITIES

Christian education is not complete unless it is linked with activities which offer the student the chance to use his God-given talents. Calvert presents a program of extra-curricular activities which enables the student to discover and develop his talents and to use them in the service of others. Thus the opportunities at Calvert lend themselves to the development of the well-rounded individual who tries to the best of his ability to be more Christlike. By taking part in the activities offered, the student learns to work with others and becomes more pleasing to God by using His gifts. The correct use of extra-curricular activities enhances a good Christian education.

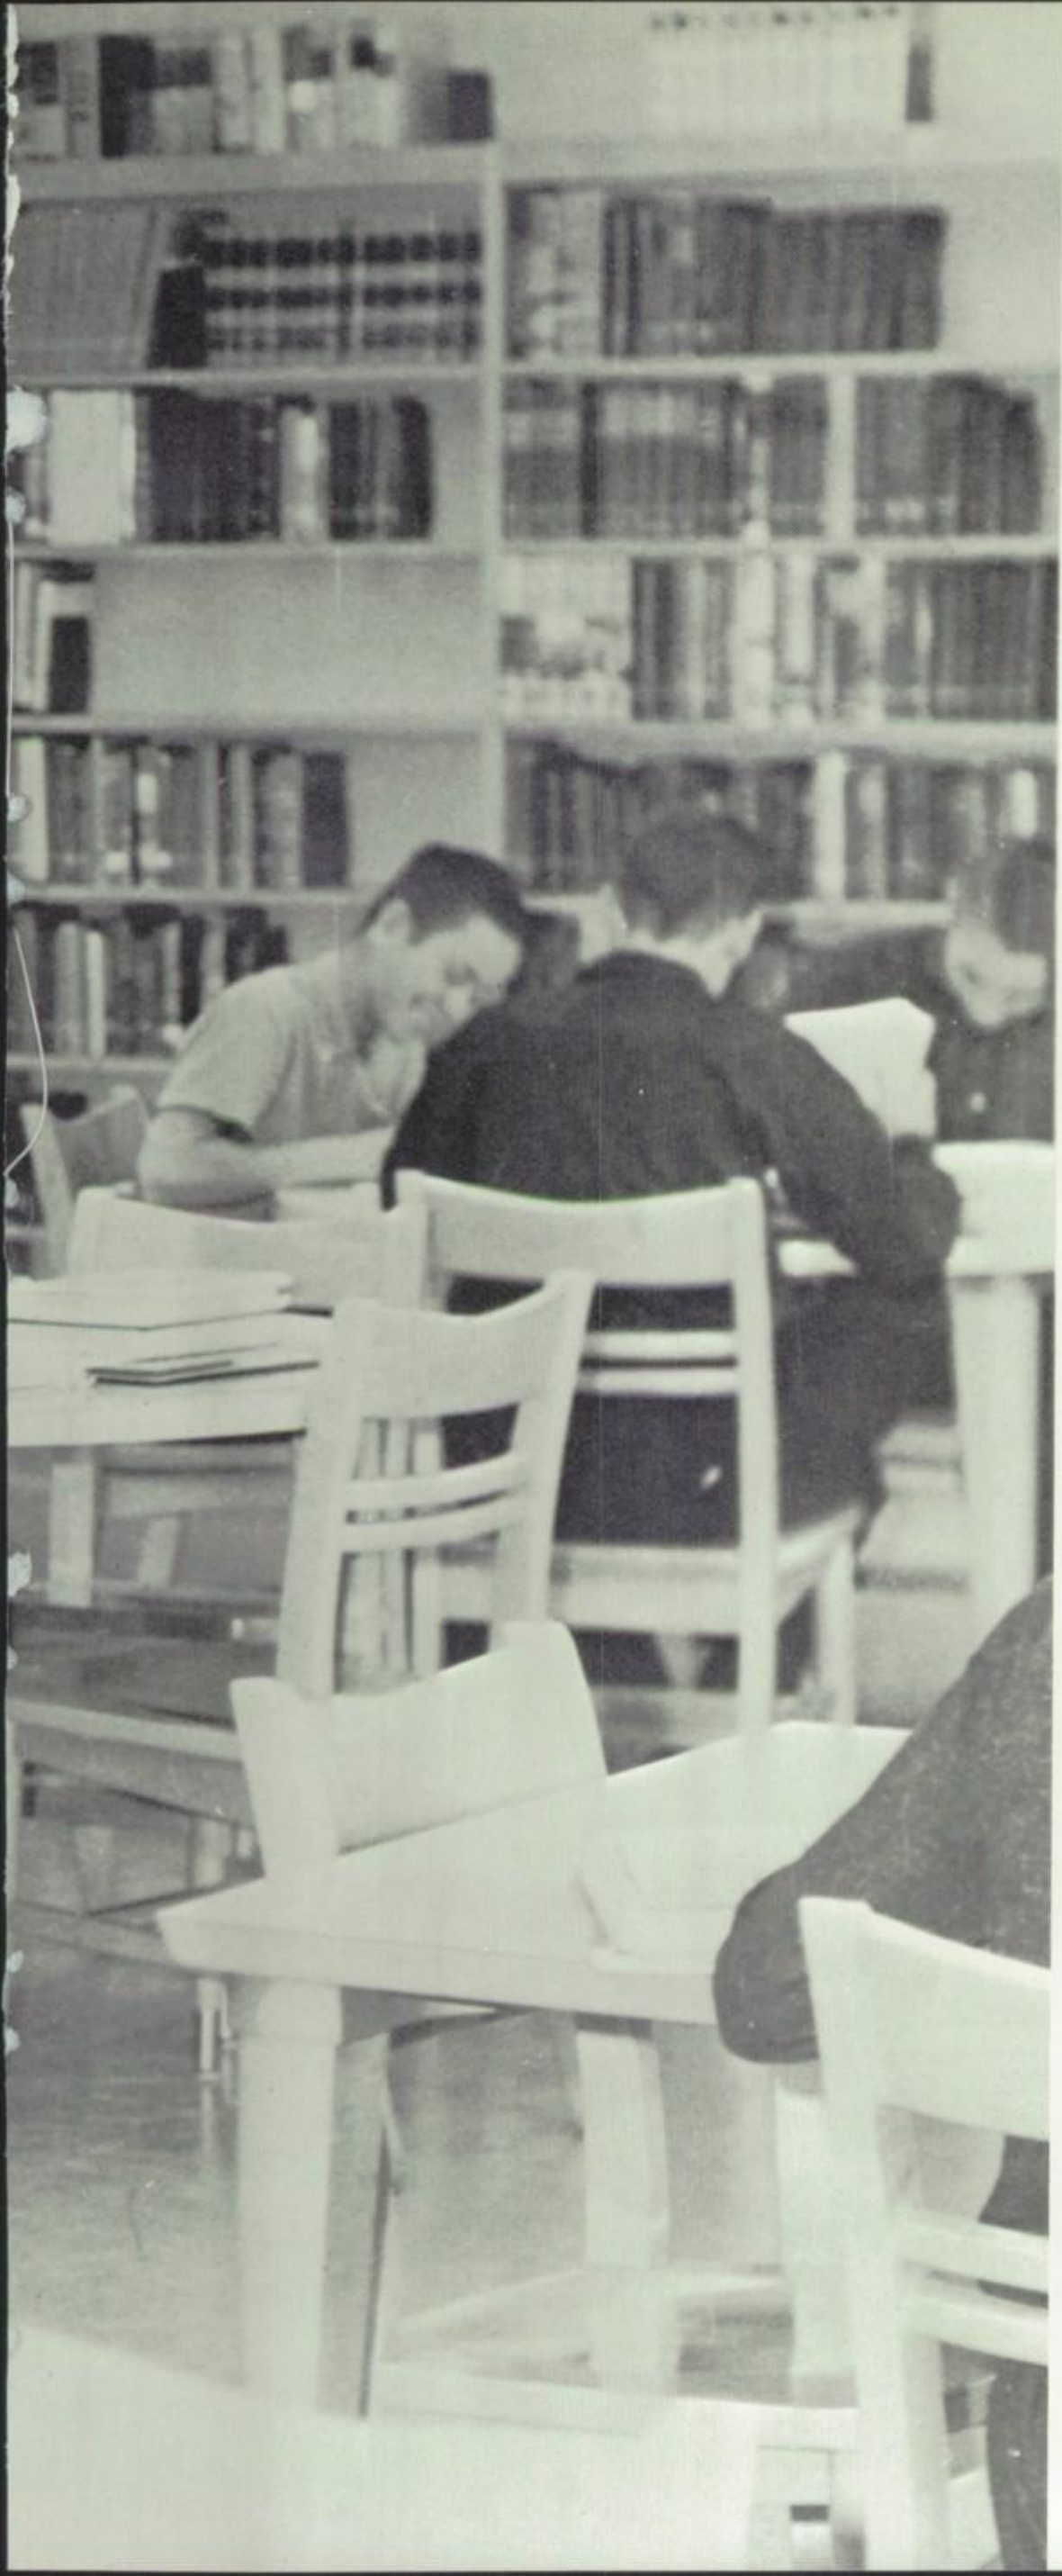
American tourist (Kathleen Robenalt, Marie Derr, Evelyn Yoder, and Shannon Leahy) greet native Tully Bascom.



CLASSES

Development of the whole man is the aim of a good education. Calvert provides for the intellectual training of its students by offering them courses geared to their abilities as well as their vocational plane. There are college preparatory subjects for those who wish to go on to higher education after graduation. Students may concentrate in special areas such as mathematics or science. Another set of subjects is calculated to prepare the interested student for a place in the business world if he intends to choose this field. Still other subjects are offered for those who do not intend to go to college or into commercial work. If a student chooses his courses wisely at Calvert, he will find that all of his needs are provided for in the curriculum.

Religion Establishes Basis

Throughout his four years at Calvert each student has the opportunity to acquire a strong knowledge of his religion. As freshmen, students learn how to thank God for His magnificent love. In the sophomore year, emphasis is placed upon the practice of virtues. Along with a study of Christ's life in the junior religion class, students also become acquainted with Church history. Since the fourth year course is the last formal religious training many seniors will receive, it deals primarily with the religious, married, and single states.

For Future

The Rev. James Say, guidance counselor, interviews Charles Clark.

Studying their notes on Christ's life, taken in junior religion class are Roberta Phillips, Sharon Spencer, Dorothy Shumway, and Donna Hoover.

Senior girls lead the rosary during October.

Father Dunn is speaking to the entire student body at Friday Mass on a virtue necessary for a holy Christian life as a student.

Number Knowledge

In his four years at Calvert, the student finds a wide variety of mathematics courses offered to him. He also finds that mathematics is an elective subject, but many students realize how important these courses are as preparation for college and the business world and choose to

Various Branches Draw Scientists

SISTER M. MAURICE, O.S.U., B.S.E., M.A., Chemistry, Biology, General Science, Chemistry Club.

Four basic subjects are offered to acquaint the interested student with science: general science, biology, chemistry, and physics. General science offers the student a subject dealing with the basic physical sciences and presents him with a fundamental concept of the sciences. Biology fills the requirement of a laboratory science which is required for graduation. Dealing with plants, animals, and man, it gives the student a study of the living organisms in the universe. Essential for college preparation and nurses training, chemistry familiarizes the student with the composition of materials. Students wishing to study the science of physics are instructed in mechanics, heat, light, sound, and electricity.

SISTER ROSE ANGELA, O.S.U., B.S.E., Biology, Physics.

Included in general science is the study of the nine planets contained in the solar system. Each of these planets possesses its own characteristics. Richard Vassalle and Kathleen Snyder are making a complete study of the solar system.

Members of the sophomore English class portray the characters in the assassination scene from Julius Caesar. They are: Thomas Steinmetz, Gerald Gase, Paul Distel as Cassius, Radford Ewing as Caesar, Joseph DeRose as Brutus, Roger Dariano, and James Rumschlag.

One sign of an educated person is his ability to comprehend and use correctly his native tongue. Although English is not an elective subject, the classes are designed to meet the needs of all students. Three types of classes are offered: special English, which provides a review of the funda-

Michael Marchetto delivers a speech to his fellow third year Latin students.

The four year Latin program and the two year Spanish program serve a variety of purposes. Their primary objective is to provide the student with a rich cultural background and a useful conversational ability. Besides learning to speak the languages correctly, the pupils also learn to write them proficiently. At the same time these language courses develop a deep interest in the colorful customs and age-old traditions of the various countries. Because most colleges require at least two years of a foreign language, these courses prove beneficial to the college-bound students, as well as to those who do not intend to go to college.

Second year Latin student Johnathan Daniel is studying diligently to master the language.

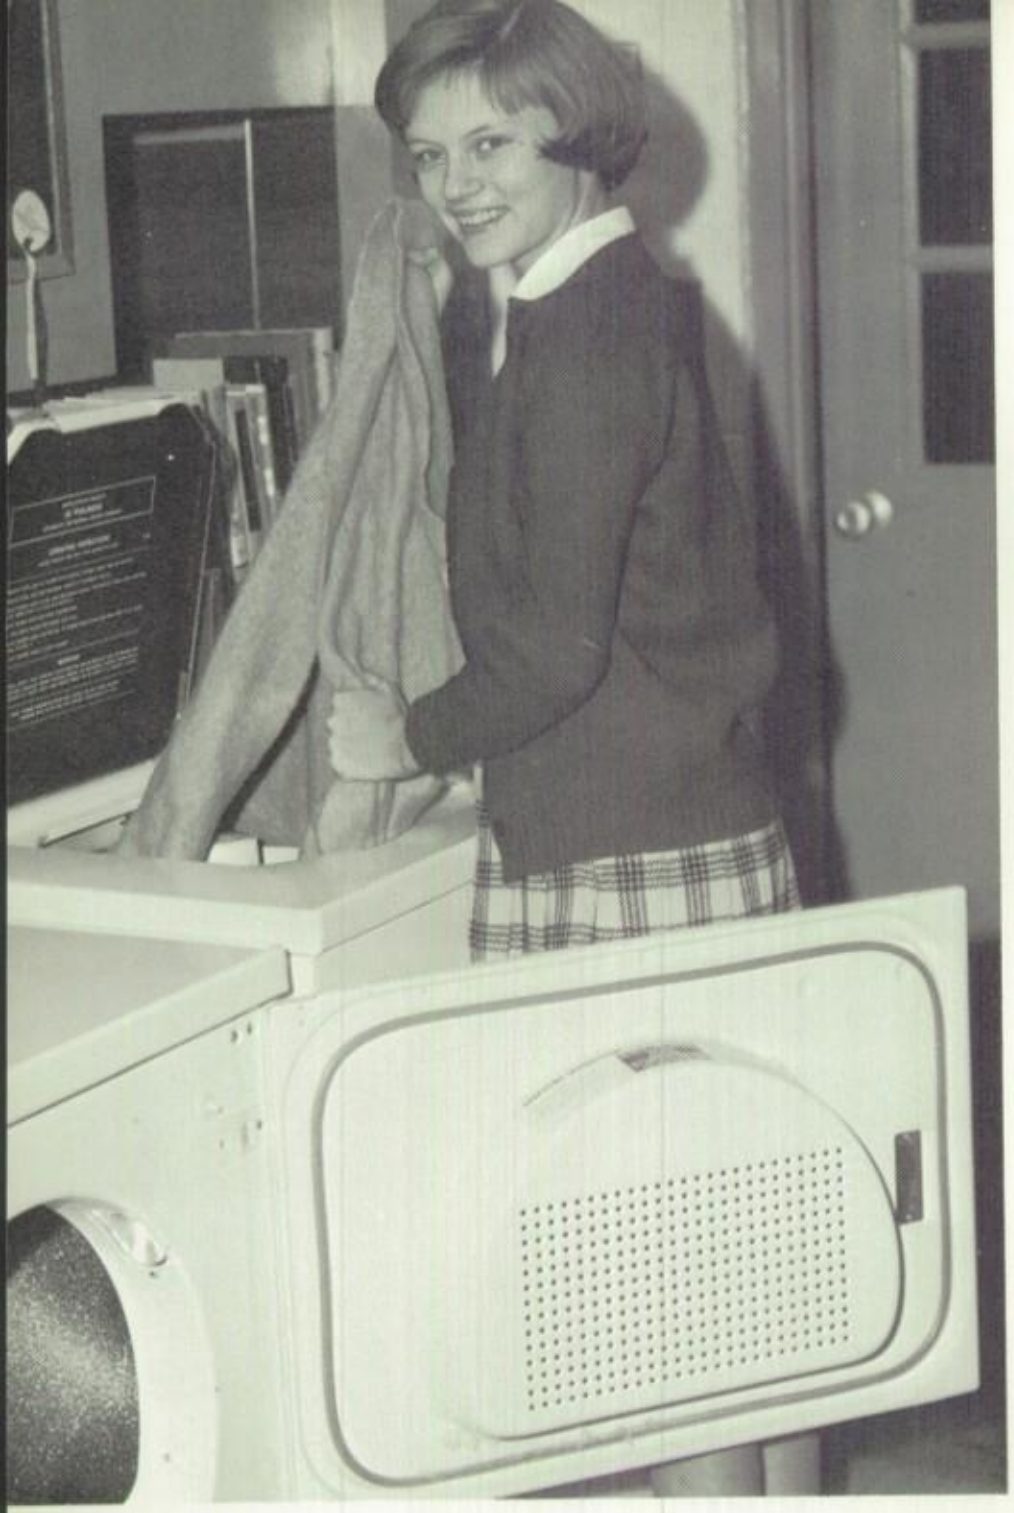
Helpful Skills,



Sophomore home economics student Joyce Fleck demonstrates to her class the correct procedure in transferring clothes from the washer to the dryer.

Although not a required subject, home economics is a favorite among Calvert girls. They are instructed in the art of homemaking, child care, sewing, and cookery. Each student realizes the importance of learning her trade well in order to prepare for her role as homemaker, wife, and mother.

The aim of mechanical drawing is to prepare students for advanced courses in drawing. It teaches the central theory of shape description. Art gives training in the use of the basic media of painting and drawing as well as in recognizing and applying the principles of art.

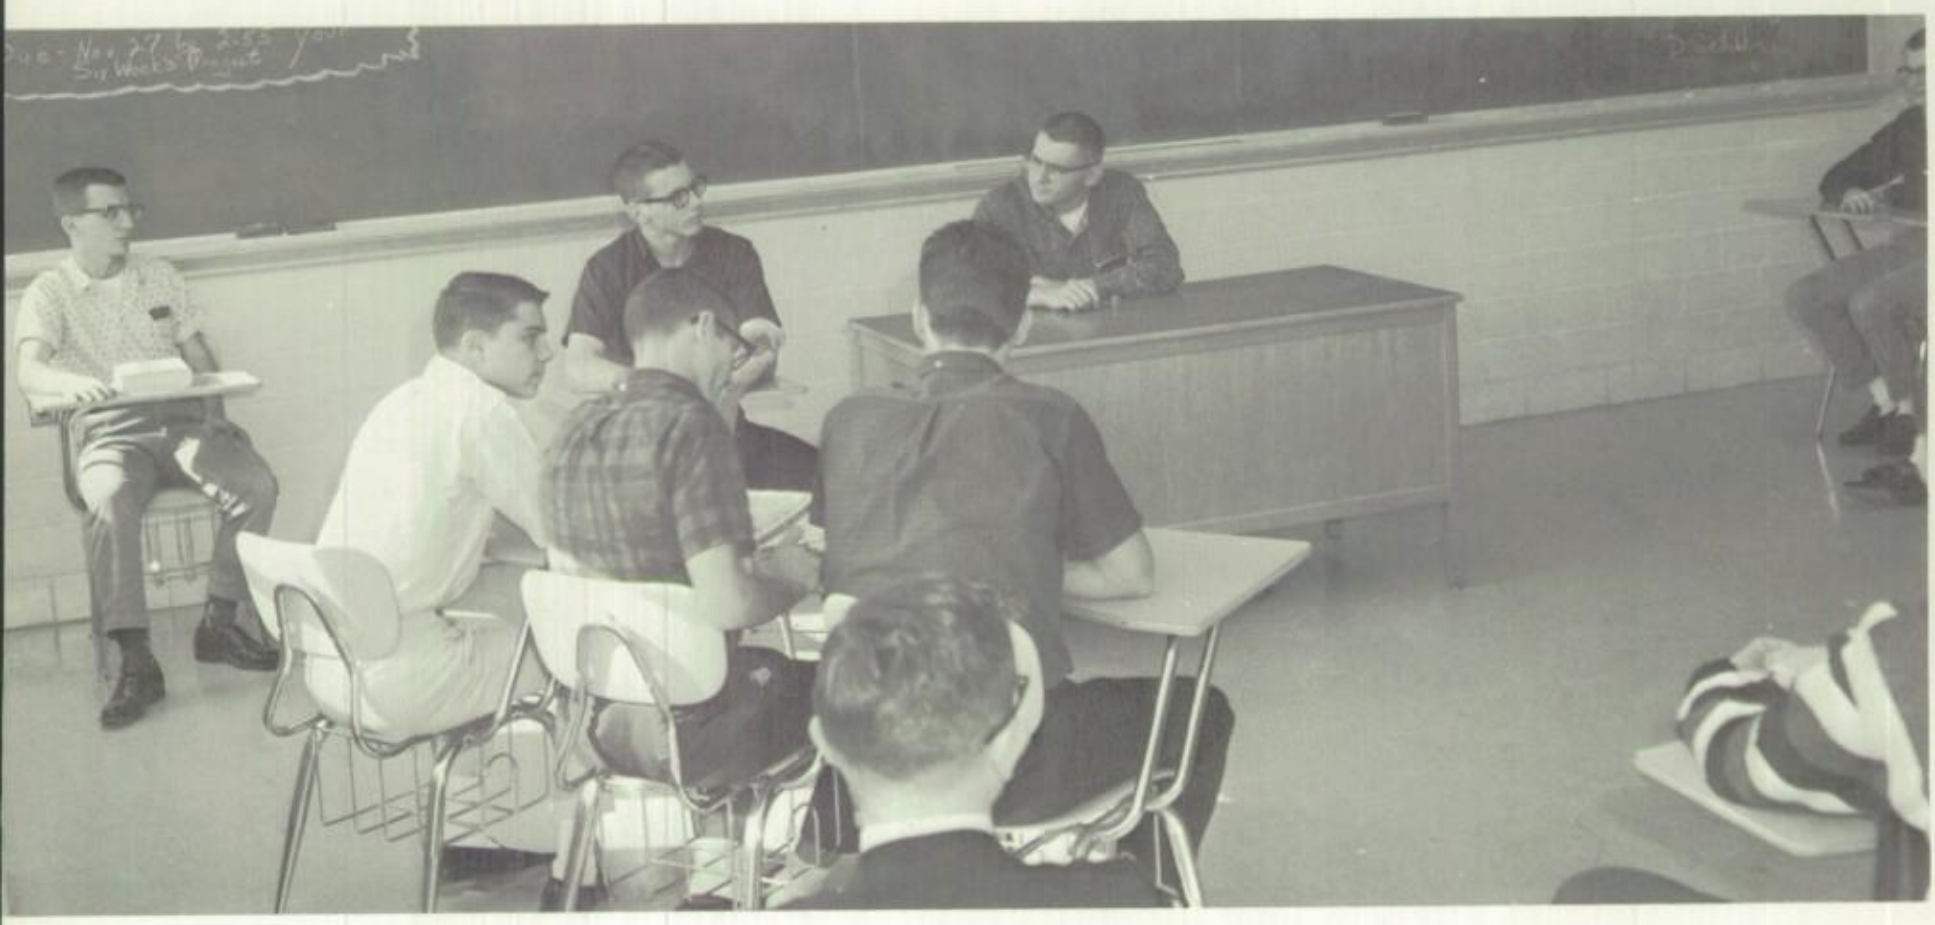
Eager Minds Search for Knowledge

Students who select social sciences find a well rounded course of studies. World history is offered to the freshmen for an essential historical background. All juniors are required to take American history for knowledge and appreciation of American heritage. American government is required of the seniors. In this course, Communism, the Constitution, the laws of the United States, and current events are examined. All classes serve as a basis for understanding the ideals which the founding fathers gave their lives. They instill in the students the courage to take up the challenge of citizenship which they as Americans must some day accept.



In senior civics classes the students' study of American government includes mock trials. During the trial of Harry Caito, Daniel Leahy gives valuable evidence for the prosecution. Judge Richard Theis, bailiff Thomas Barnhart and defense lawyers Robert Daniel and William Kasuga look on.

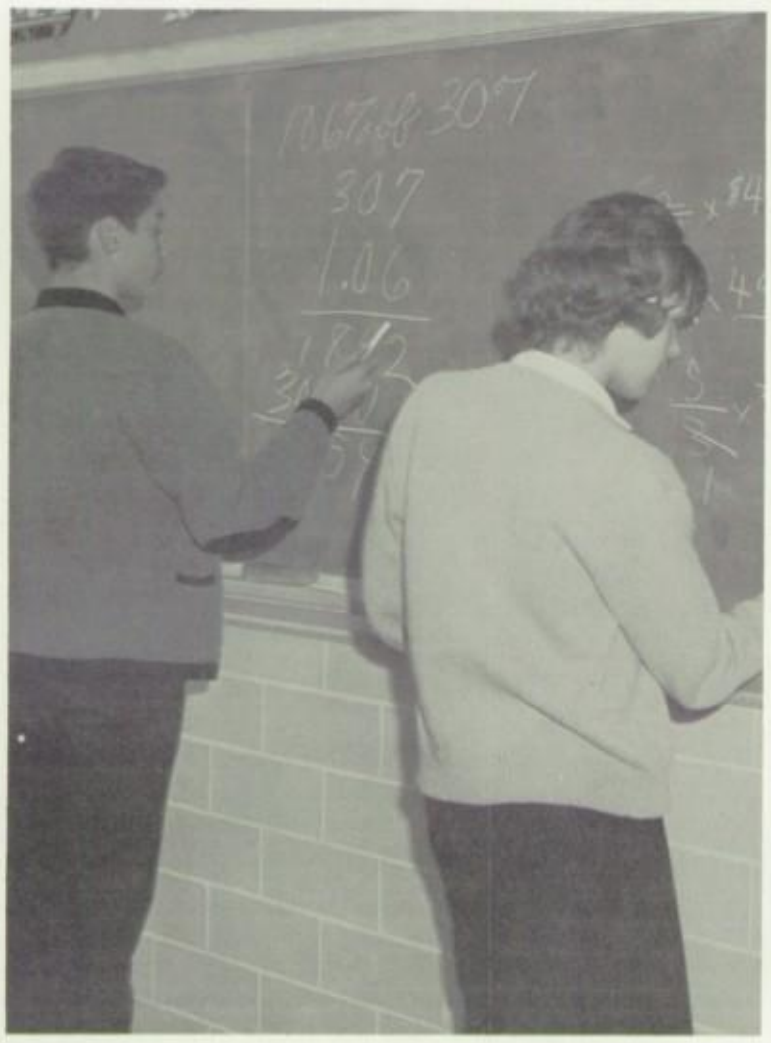
Classes Insure Commerce Careers



Richard Vassalle and Theresa Miller are practicing everyday problems they will have to deal with in the business world.

Calvert extends to the commercial minded student those courses which will enable him to prepare for his future career. Over the period of four years the student is offered typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping to develop the skills of business, while general business and office practice taught to ensure the various fundamentals needed to participate in the rapidly developing business world.

HIGH SCHOOL U.S.A.

High school is much more than the daily routine of textbooks and classrooms. "The whole is equal to the sum of its parts, and is greater than any one of them." Likewise, the sum of the whole man is equal to the sum of his formal and informal, exciting and dull, happy and sad moments. The purpose of Catholic education is to cultivate the whole man, spiritually, physically, and intellectually. This end is accomplished at Calvert through the various clubs, special projects, and athletic programs. Perhaps the fondest memories of high school are those of the little unexpected, unplanned incidents which occur daily, but receive little or no attention.

Many People,

Spanish Club officers, Thomas Rochford, James Whitman, vice-president, Patricia Gillig, president, and Michael Margraf are studying Spain.

SPORTS

Christian education consists not only in the development of the mind and of the soul but also in the development of the body. As well as immaterial powers, God has given us bodies to train and to discipline. If we expect to have productive and alert minds we must have healthy bodies.

President Kennedy has stressed the need for physical fitness. "The vigor of our country is no stronger than the vitality and will of our countrymen."

With these basic truths in mind, Calvert has established a well-rounded physical fitness program. Gym classes, football, basketball, and baseball all aid in the development of our growing bodies.

Alumni Give Report on Activities

The Alumni Association of Calvert, numbering over two thousand members, was headed this year by Mr. Steve Ecos, president; Mr. Thomas Goetz, vice-president; Mrs. Thomas Company, secretary; and Mrs. James Ewald, treasurer.

As in the past, a High Mass was offered in the Ursuline Chapel for all the living and deceased members and their families.

To mark the celebration of their one-hundreth anniversary of teaching in the Tiffin schools, the officers and many alumni attended Mass in honor of the Ursuline Sisters. A note of appreciation was sent to them from the Alumni Association.

Congratulations were also extended to a Calvert alumnus, Calvert's principal, the Rev. Edward C. Dunn, on his appointment as a monsignor.

Mr. Steve Ecos
President

Mrs. Thomas Company
Secretary

Mr. Thomas Goetz
Vice-President

Mrs. James Ewald
Treasurer

The annual alumni dance at Meadowbrook Ballroom, held on August 31, was well attended by many alumni from Tiffin and out-of-town. A combined potluck and card party was held on April 25, proceeds of which went to the Calvert library for the purchase of books or other equipment.

The class of 1939 will celebrate its silver anniversary this year.

In closing our year, we, as the officers, would like to thank all alumni who have helped in any way to make this a successful year for the Alumni Association.

In Memoriam

John Fitzgerald Kennedy

In 1963 we were shocked by an unforgettable event when a young and profoundly loved President was struck down at the very crest of his power, talents, experience, and influence. We pray that he may rest in peace--his noble soul with God for all eternity, his still youthful body awaiting the resurrection of the dead.
